No Dentifrice Can Sterilize the Mouth.

(Powerful chemicals would serve only to injure the mucous membranes)

Misleading and impossible claims for germicidal and sterilizing action are made for some dentifrices. Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream is advertised with a strict regard for truth—and truth in advertising implies honesty in manufacture. It is a safe, sane cleanser of the teeth, and accomplishes its purpose without resorting to over-medication.

CHILDREN CLAIMED BY MRS. MOHR NOT HIS, DOCTOR SAID

You understand what the physician meant when he wrote "What I contended she admits?" A. No, nothing. I don't know what he was thinking when he wrote that. I don't understand it now.

Mrs. Elmina Hogan, known as "Aunt Ella," who is a sister of Dr. A. J. Pizzini, was then called. She is a wrinkled little woman with a pleasant, spectacled face, and she was so tiny that when she stood in the witness stand, she seemed to be sitting there. She was asked if she wished to sit down and with a smile she replied: "No, I like to stand. I'm all right."

Mrs. Hogan told of visits Mrs. Mohr had made her at her home in Meadville, Pa. The last visit was in July, 1915. Mr. Cushing, who questioned her, went at once to the question of Mrs. Mohr's letters.

Q. Did Mrs. Mohr show you any letter written by George Healey? A. Yes.

Q. What did she say when she spoke of the doctor? A. That she loved him. She said this during every one of the three visits she paid me.

Q. (To Mr. Rice in cross-examination) Where have you been stopping in the three weeks you have been in Providence? A. In the house in Reservoir Avenue in which Mrs. Mohr lives.

Q. You never visited her before? A. No.

Q. Did you ever know Dr. Mohr's first wife? A. No.

Q. What do you know about his divorce from her? A. Nothing. He never told me of it. I've read of it in the papers and Mrs. Mohr has spoken of it.

Q. Have you any hopes of participating in the distribution of the doctor's estate? A. (In much indignation) No, indeed.

Gustavus D. Mohr, also of Meadville, and a brother of Dr. Mohr—a Pennsylvania farmer who had been a coal-miner, school board director, superintendent of the Lutheran Sunday school in his home town, and a bible class teacher for twenty-four years, then took the stand. He testified that Mrs. Mohr had visited his house in 1914 and 1915. Last summer she was there about sixteen days, he said.

Q. When did Mrs. Mohr come to him about a reconciliation with the doctor? A. She always called me "Uncle Gus," he added.

Q. When did she begin to see him? A. She began to see him when she watched the venerable gray man in the witness stand. He went on: "She said 'Uncle Gus, if you come to Providence don't you think you can do something toward bringing about a reconciliation between the doctor and me?' Then she paused for a moment and added: 'Uncle Gus, I'll pay all your expenses if you'll come on.'"

When Mr. Rice cross-examined Mrs. Mohr, the latter said he had not seen Dr. Mohr for twenty-three years. He knew nothing at all about the physician's first wife and never saw the present Mrs. Mohr until November, 1914. This was after Mrs. Mohr had begun her action for divorce.

Q. When did you first learn of any trouble between Dr. Mohr and Mrs. Mohr? A. When I got a letter from him in June, 1915.

Here Mr. Rice read the letter which was addressed "Dear Brother."

On redirect examination Mr. Mohr said he had done "as he pleased" in having Mrs. Mohr in his house.

Mrs. Etta Bradley, formerly "office girl" for Dr. Mohr was the succeeding witness. She was in his employment for two years.

Q. In that time did you ever hear Dr. Mohr repudiate either Mrs. Mohr or the children? A. No, never.

Q. When did you first become acquainted with Miss Burger? A. In 1912.

Q. Did you ever tell Mrs. Mohr anything about his going about with Miss Burger? A. Yes, when she asked me I told her. This was after the separation of Dr. and Mrs. Mohr.

Q. Did you ever give Mrs. Mohr information about him and the Burger girl? A. Yes, I told him that if he went about openly with her and I was asked about it I'd have to tell the truth.

Q. (On cross-examination by Mr. Rice) When you were discharged from his work, did you tell her the truth? A. Miss Burger.

Q. You were an eavesdropper and a spy? A. No, I only told the truth when I was asked.

Leroy Payne, formerly an office boy for Dr. Mohr, testified that Mrs. Mohr had enlisted him in her corps of spies on Dr. Mohr.

Q. What did Mrs. Mohr ask you to do? A. She wanted me to inform her about Miss Burger's visits to the doctor. I told her Miss Burger came to the office twice a week and went out in the car with him at other times.

Mrs. Mohr mopped her lips with her handkerchief and whispered to Mr. McCarthy, her junior counsel.

Q. What was the doctor's condition in January, 1914? A. Drunk most of the time.

It was in this period, according to Mrs. Mohr, that her husband frequently beat her.

Q. Did Mrs. Mohr offer to pay you for your information? A. Yes, and she still owes me money on the promise.

How to Have the Best Cough Remedy and Save Money by Making It at Home.

Cough medicines, as a rule, contain a large quantity of plain sugar. A pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, stirred for 2 minutes, gives you as good syrup as money can buy.

Then get your drugist 2 1/2 ounces Pinex (50 cents' worth), pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with sugar syrup. This gives you, at a cost of only 34 cents, a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50—a clear saving of nearly 80%. Full directions with Pinex.

It takes hold of the usual cough or chest cold at once and conquers it in 24 hours. Splendid for whooping cough, bronchitis and winter colds.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals and soothes the inflamed membranes in the case of a cough.

To avoid disappointment ask your drugist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex," and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—Adv.

HEDLEY SELLS PATENTS TO THE INTERBORO AS HE DRAWS $50,000 SALARY

your companies in any other way? A. Yes, I have invented a good many valuable devices. When I conceive a new device I get a patent on it. I pay the attorneys' fees and the Government fees out of my own pocket.

If the railroad companies that employ me desire to use the devices I give them the right free. They can purchase the devices wherever they like in the open market. There have been cases in which my devices added safety to passengers and economy to the management. In some cases the Interborough Board of Directors by resolution have paid me a sum of money.

Mr. Hedley recalled only that this had happened in 1908, 1909 and 1912. The first was for his device called the "coasting clock," which automatically records how much time a motor-man cuts off electric power and "coasts" on the train's momentum.

It was given to the motor-men who use the last power. The device, Mr. Hedley said, had saved the company $50,000 a year.

Q. You patented the "coasting clock"? A. Yes, in my own name and that of J. S. Doyle, superintendent of car construction. They pay me $7.50 per clock per year—half to Mr. Doyle and half to me.

Q. How many of these clocks are in use? A. About 400 in the subway and 800 or 900 on the elevated lines.

The clock mechanism is made by the Computing Tabulating and Recording Company, and the General Electric and the Westinghouse Company make the electric parts. The subway buys the clocks from the manufacturers.

In 1909, Mr. Hedley said, he invented an anti-climbing device, made of rolled steel, which prevents cars from telescoping in case of collision. This was taken up by a great many railroads, including the Interborough. Corrugations on the edges of the platform prevent climbing in case of collision.

Q. When did you begin working on this anti-climbing device? A. Oh, I had seen the need of it for thirty years. I had worked on it for three years before patenting it in 1909. The Interborough and the New York Railways companies pay me $10 per car for the installation of the device. There are 1,200 cars using it on the subway and 1,800 on the elevated. There are thousands of cars using it in other companies.

Q. How many other companies? A. Oh, thirty or forty, scattered all over the world. They all pay $10 a car; and when I can get more I get it.

Mr. Hedley could remember only one company that paid him more than $10 a car. Several companies get the device for as little as $5 a car—in large quantities. They buy through the Railway Improvement Company, with which Mr. Hedley used to be connected.

GETS BIG PRICE FROM MADDOO TUNNEL AND PENNSYLVANIA.

Q. What is the name of the company that pays you more than $10 a car? A. There are two—the Maddoo Tunnel and the Pennsylvania pay me $10 a car and the Southern Pacific, on its electric service, pays me $15 a car. They have several hundred cars.

Q. What did you get from the Interborough for this service last month? A. Oh, $400 or $450.

Q. What did you get last year? A. I don't remember.

Mr. Hedley declared that he had invented his clocks at his home in Yonkers, where he has a complete shop with lathes, forges, etc.

Another patented article he has sold to the Interborough is a third rail cleaning device to clean off sleet or snow. It is known as the Hedley third rail scraper. Each motor car carries its own.

"I invented that in Chicago," said Mr. Hedley, "and gave the Manhattan Elevated Company the right to use it when I came on here the last time. Before that they used to have a lot of trouble with snow and sleet and sometimes they had to shut down before they used my scraper. The company gave me $5,000 outright for that."

Mr. Hedley testified over and over again that he paid his own patent fees out of his own pocket and that his company used many of his devices free. Sometimes the fees ran up into thousands of dollars. But when Senator Thompson questioned him he could recall only one case in which the fees were more than $500.

Other devices of his that Mr. Hedley recalled are a railway truck, a braking device, the low level and double deck cars, a side-door lock which keeps the guard from opening the doors until the steps are down, and a ventilating device.

A chorus of chuckles throughout the room greeted this.

Mr. Hedley told of his sanitary white steel strap to which people hang in the cars.

"I believe I have used them," said Mr. Colby mildly.

"That device is more used by New Yorkers than anything else," said Chairman Thompson. "I love to increase the dividends by hanging on a strap."

"The straps will always be in use," retorted Mr. Hedley. "If those straps should go out of use both the railroads and the City of New York would have to go into the hands of a receiver. As long as railroads are run in New York a certain number of passengers will have to stand up at certain hours."

SAYS SALARY OF $50,000 A YEAR IS NOT ENOUGH.

Mr. Hedley declared that he has received a salary at the rate of $50,000 a year only during the last eight months.

"And it isn't enough," he added.

Mr. Hedley declared that he organized the Railway Improvement Company to sell his patented devices to outside companies.

"The companies by which I am em-played have never paid a penny to the Railway Improvement Company," said Mr. Hedley proudly.

"Why shouldn't they have the latest safety devices?" asked Mr. Colby.

"They can buy them from the manufacturers in the open market, not from me," said Mr. Hedley.

Yet the witness had to admit that his partner, Doyle, is largely interested in buying cars for the subway and elevated lines. Mr. Hedley sold out his interest in the Railway Improvement Company last Feb. 15 to A. J. Pizzini, who lives at the Hotel Ansonia, business address, No. 61 Broadway.

The Railway Improvement Company paid no dividends, Mr. Hedley said, yet Mr. Pizzini had been trying for two or three years to buy it.

"I got $12,500 for my 120,000 shares, a little less than par," Mr. Hedley explained.

Q. Why did you sell your stock to Mr. Pizzini when it was just beginning to make money? A. Well, I had a clear conscience, but I didn't want to give an opportunity to people with minds improperly trained. They might think there was something wrong.

Q. And that was about the time this investigation began? A. That's news to me.

Mr. Hedley looked surprised. Mr. Colby reminded him that the present investigation began Jan. 31, 1915. He looked more surprised.

"Have you received any stated share of the price of your patented devices when bought by the Interborough?" asked Counsel Bainbridge Colby.

"Not a penny when they are bought by the Interborough," announced Mr. Hedley. "In some cases, as I have told you, the directors of the Interborough voted me a special sum."

Counsel Colby read Mr. Hedley's reply to the public inquiry sent out by Senator Thompson on Jan. 13. In the reply, after telling about his official position, salary, etc., Mr. Hedley refused to answer the questions as to any stocks or bonds he owns in other corporations. He wrote that these questions ran beyond the power of this committee, which is to investigate the Public Service Commission and the public service corporations.

He quoted an opinion of the United States Supreme Court that an inquiry of that sort was a "fruitless inquiry as to personal matters of the individual." He didn't know what case it was, Counsel put it in.

"Why," asked Counsel Colby, "do you personally object to telling what stocks you own?"

"Because," said Mr. Hedley, "I should say that when I have bought stocks or bonds years ago in other companies, this committee has no right to ask when I bought them."

"Do you refuse to tell what returns you have had from your inventions manufactured in the shops of
